ABOUT THE CENTRE

Community legal centres recognize the barriers which exist for many people in their interaction with and understanding of the law and our legal system. These barriers are reinforced by the high cost of private legal services, the restrictions on the availability of legal aid, the complexity of the law and legal processes, and the fact that many people are powerless to deal with their legal problems because of social, economic or other disadvantage.

The Hunter Community Legal Centre aims to address this unmet need for legal services and to eliminate the structural and systemic barriers to justice which exist for many disadvantaged members of its community.

The Hunter Community Legal Centre was established in 1991 as a not-for-profit community legal centre to provide free legal advice, assistance and representation to disadvantaged people in the Newcastle and Hunter region. It covers 11 local government areas with a geographic area of approximately 22,000 square kilometres and a population of approximately 600,000. The Centre is currently funded to provide free telephone and face to face legal advice, assistance and representation in many areas of law, as well as community legal education, law reform and clinical legal education. It also provides a number of outreach face to face legal advice clinics in the Hunter region.

OUR CLIENT'S STORIES

Owen

"I needed some free legal advice firstly in regards to Family Law and secondly for assistance with an insurance claim. The divorce and property settlement have been finalised. The solicitor said how it was and what the other party was entitled to and I was happy with that.

The insurance claim, still ongoing but likely to be settled very shortly with the solicitor's help. With the insurance claim I thought my insurance would just straight cover me for the theft. It was a lot more complicated and difficult then I thought. It's been a long process of proving ownership. The stress of it all has led me to have significant health problems. I have been very happy with the service I have been given. The solicitors were straight upfront about it all. No bull!!!.

Without places like this, people like us would be in the shit, we would just get manipulated. If you guys close down, we're really in trouble. You've got my full support. People like us, who can't read, and are very slow, would be in trouble (if you weren't here). Without places like this, we're in trouble. Everyone seemed to work well together as a team. I really appreciate all the help."

Owen

Amelia

"I was referred to the Centre by the Family Relationship Centre. I had parenting issues with the father of my child and I wanted legal advice on what action to take. I was advised and given a certificate rather than going to mediation it was inappropriate due to family violence. On the first appointment we discussed what the situation was – then they advised me of options. The solicitor said she would be happy to help with a parenting plan if that came up in future. Six months later I contacted the HCLC again to get the parenting plan. The solicitor drafted documents for the parenting plan which was put in place and my ex was able to start having visits with his son according with the plan. The service was good and they were really helpful. I didn't have to wait long to get into an appointment. Within 2 days of the appointment, the solicitor had emailed a draft through to me. It was very efficient. I really appreciated the help. They were very good and thorough. "

“I wasn’t going to do anything about my problem until my partner advised me to get legal advice. I rang Law Access and they told me to get legal advice and gave me the number for the Hunter Community Legal Centre. The police charged me with a number of domestic violence offences and took out an AVO against me.

The solicitor at the Centre suggested that I ask for an adjournment so I could get further help. The solicitor helped me work out what I was going to say, how to plead and arranged my Section 32 Application. At the adjournment I was able to speak for myself, I was given thorough advice on how to do this and I was confident to say it to the judge.

I was represented at court by a solicitor from the Centre, at the final day in Toronto. A Section 32 was sought. They filled in appropriate forms and organised to see appropriate people and liaise with them for me.

In the meantime, I was already arrested for breaking the AVO. So I got some phone advice about that and instructed to seek another adjournment at Liverpool.

I was granted Section 32 on all matters and given a treatment plan. This isn’t normal behaviour for me but I have bipolar disorder and I was off my medication when all this happened. I wasn’t expecting a very good outcome and the solicitor sat me down and said they were probably looking at some custodial sentence, like weekend detention or something, and probably go to parole board to make a decision. So when we got the Section 32 I was over the moon. It’s given me a second chance. I probably would have lost my job otherwise, and I don’t know where I would have ended up if I didn’t get the help. My partner was pregnant at time and couldn’t work, and I was leasing a house. I couldn’t afford at the time to pay for legal representation and you can’t get legal aid when you have assets, so I’m pretty grateful for the help. “

Robert and Margaret

We had a dispute with our neighbours regarding trees on our property. We had tried to resolve the dispute but after 2 unsuccessful mediations we were advised to contact Legal Aid. After receiving a letter from our neighbours stating they were going to take us to the Land and Environment Court, Legal Aid wrote a letter to OP to say it didn't warrant a court hearing. Despite this, we were then served with an application for Land and Environment Court. Legal Aid advised they had taken our case as far as possible. They then gave us the information for the Hunter Community Legal Centre.

We saw a solicitor and a law student at the Centre. The law student researched cases with similar evidence to provide us with more argument. The solicitor and the law student went through the information provided by Legal Aid and we put together an affidavit and submissions for the Land Environment Court. The solicitor took us through the process of the court.

The Commissioner from the Land and Environment Court attended our property. He took on board everything both parties said and was very fair. The Commissioner asked if we had a compromise – we agreed for 2 bushes to be trimmed to veranda height level. Nothing else is allowed to be touched or removed.

The Commissioner found in our favour. The result was much better than what we had expected. We are very happy.

Keep up the good work. Thank you very much for all your assistance. It really makes a difference.

Corrine

Relationships Australia referred me to the Centre because I needed assistance with a property settlement and other Family Law matters. The solicitors assisted me with writing an affidavit and submitting an initiating application and drafted a parenting plan. They guided you through the court hearing at court, so I was confident to do it myself.

The parenting plan was established and the Court order to that effect and the property settlement was finalised. I hoped for this outcome. This was my ideal situation. I am extremely happy.

I would recommend, and I do recommend, the service to so many people going through it and have difficulty financially.

Everyone was a wonderful support to me. Everyone acted very professionally. Everyone was really helpful from the staff at the front desk through to the solicitors.

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT

I am very pleased to report on another busy and successful year for the Hunter Community Legal Centre.

The Centre continues to work towards its mission of providing access to justice for vulnerable people in the Hunter. The Outreach Legal Services continue to provide accessible services at Muswellbrook, Cessnock, Raymond Terrace and Nelson Bay. The Duty Services provide assistance at Newcastle and Muswellbrook Local Courts and the Newcastle Family and Federal Circuit Courts. Telephone advice continues to grow as does, court representation. Moreover the client satisfaction survey this year indicates 100% of clients surveyed felt they were treated with respect, understood the information or advice they received and the service met their expectations.

The Centre's community engagement continues with partnerships with many community organisations, raising the Centre's profile and improving referrals to the Centre. The programme of Community Legal Education to the workers in community services has been very successful with positive feedback and requests for more sessions in the coming year.

Law Reform continues with submissions from the Centre on public housing, domestic violence and credit and debt receiving media coverage. Work on systemic issues affecting the lives of our clients continues at the Centre.

Clinical Legal Education at the Centre continues to provide a quality practical legal experience for law students and graduates. Over 900 hours of supervised practical legal training was provided in the last year to students and graduates of many different law schools.

I would like to thank my fellow Board members for their work this year, giving their time to attend meetings, work on sub committees and oversee the governance of the Centre. The hard work of the Centre staff and the Board subcommittee has seen the Centre maintain its accreditation with the National Association of Community Legal Centres by making continuous progress and meeting its accreditation milestones. In particular I would like to recognise our Treasurer, Murray Evans, for his expert advice in times of funding uncertainty.

I would, on behalf of myself and the Board, like to thank Liz Pinnock, the former Managing Solicitor. Liz was instrumental in engaging independent assessment of the Centre and the eventual restructure of the Centre. Having completed these difficult tasks Liz decided she needed another challenge, and with regret, the Board accepted her resignation. Despite losing Liz there was a bright side, with Bronwyn Ambrogetti taking up the Senior Lawyer position. Bronwyn brings with her years of experience in the general law practice, as well as, a wealth of experience with Community Legal Centres.

Finally I would like to thank all the Board and other volunteers and staff for their commitment to the Centre and look forward to another year working together to improve access to justice in the Hunter.

MANAGING SOLICITOR'S REPORT

In the 2013 – 2014 financial year the Hunter Community Legal Centre continued to provide important legal services for disadvantaged members of the Hunter community as well as increasing its community involvement in other ways. Some highlights of the year which illustrate the Centre's growing reputation, community engagement and continuing commitment to providing high quality legal services, community legal education and law reform projects, are:

- Increased numbers of outreach clinics and clients assisted by way of outreach in the Hunter region.
- Increased number of promotional activities such as attendance at Interagency meetings, WEA Hunter Youth Program, Hunter Homeless Connect Day, NAIDOC Family Fun Day and Fund raising activity for White Ribbon Day. Eight staff and four PLT students made up our team to undertake the Walk for Justice.
- Hosting of a community consultation on sex discrimination at work by the Sex Discrimination Commissioner, Elizabeth Broderick, from the Australian Human Rights Commission.
- Presentation by two members of staff at the National Conference in Cairns in July 2013, Legal Outreach Clinics: How to Walk the Walk. The presentation described HCLC's evaluation and review of its Outreach Program and the use of NACLC's Legal Needs Toolkit to prioritise and target the Outreach Program to address unmet legal need in its catchment area.
- Participation in external boards and committees such as the Aboriginal Community Justice Group, the Domestic Violence Court Assistance Scheme, Jenny's Place and Family Insight.
- Greater involvement in CLSD meetings and projects such as the CLSD Interactive Play Opening Doors.
- Continued development of relationships with State and Federal members of Parliament and lobbying on issues affecting disadvantaged people such as changes to the Victims Compensation Scheme.

- Increased use of social media, development of marketing materials, and improvement in search engine optimisation of the HCLC website.
- Continued improvement in quality assurance through the NACLC Accreditation Scheme.
- Participation by several members of staff in the RRR Roadshow held at the Northern Rivers Community Legal Centre in Lismore in April 2014.
- Continued strengthening of the relationship with the University of Newcastle through Law on the Beach and the Legal Education Program (LEP).

In an increasingly difficult funding environment the staff of the Centre are to be congratulated on their achievements in the past year, in particular in the area of community involvement and engagement. These achievements demonstrate the commitment of the staff to the aims and objectives of the Centre and their willingness to go beyond the call of duty to meet those aims.

"During my time here I gained extensive insight into family law, both from a substantive basis as well as learning about the law in practice in an adversarial setting. I was fortunate enough to observe a range of different judges and to learn about their personal judicial styles and how they applied the Family Law Act. As I am yet to study family law, I think that this placement has been extremely helpful in placing family law in context as I was able to see how the law was applied in day-to-day life. I learned about the entire legal process from separation of parties, to contravention applications for court orders, learning along the way what procedural forms and information are required for the matter to move forward."

"The Family Law program is an incredible program and I hope that many students after me can also have this positive experience."
